

DEPARTURE (Part 1)

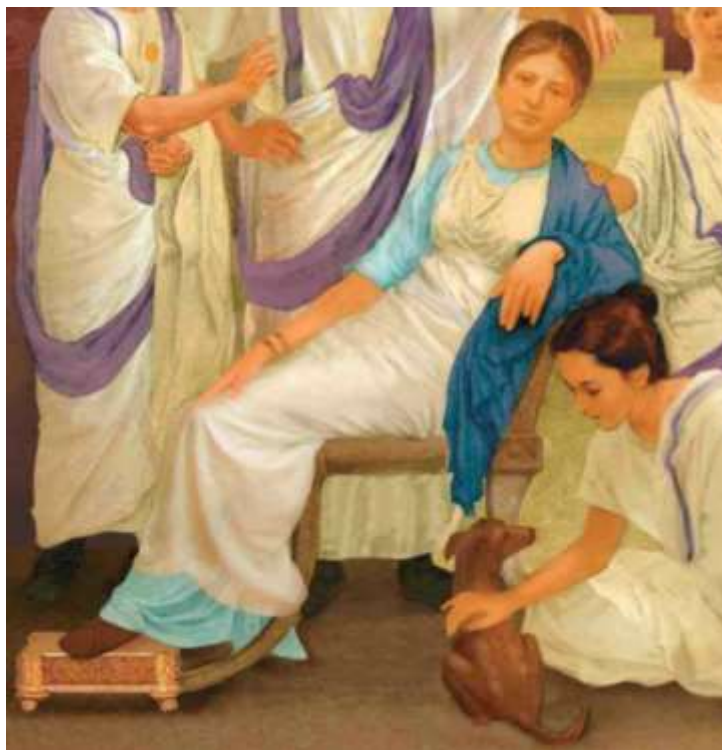

Intereā in vīllā omnēs strēnuē labōrant.

Aurēlia tunicam et stolam et pallam gerit.

Servam iubet aliās tunicās et stolās et pallās in cistam pōnere.

other

Mārcus et Sextus in urbe togās praetextās semper gerunt.

Gāius Cornēlius togam praetextam induit.

induō,
induere

put on

Dāvus ad iānuam stat.

Dāvus servōs iubet cistās ē cubiculīs in viam portāre.
out of the rooms road

Dāvus baculum habet et clāmat,

“Agite, servī scelestī!

Dormītisne?

Hodiē, nōn crās, discēdimus!”

today

tomorrow

also Mārcus quoque servōs incitat.

of Sextus
Servus, nōmine Geta, cistam Sextī arripit et in raedam iacit.

“Cavē, Geta!” exclāmat Sextus sollicitus.
“Spectā cistam meam! . . .

Nōlī cistam iacere!”

Don't